

ANDREA CANTILE

University of Florence
Landscape Architecture Master's Degree

Professor of Historical Cartography

STITUTIONAL ROLES

Director of IGMI Attilio Mori Library and Museum

MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS

History of Cartography and Historical Cartography

ACADEMIC CAREER

Andrea Cantile, Ph. D. in Historical Geography, teaches Historical Cartography in Landscape Architecture Master's Degree (University of Florence). He is Georgofili's academician, Director of the Attilio Mori Library and Museum (Italian Geographic Military Institute), member of United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names and member of Scientific Committee of Ximeniano Observatory in Florence.

His main publications are:

Cantile A. (2013) Lineamenti di storia della cartografia italiana, Geoweb, Roma.

Cantile A. (2011) On the 18th-Century Tuscan Route Atlas at the Library of the Istituto Geografico Militare Italiano, Mandragora, Florence.

Cantile A. (ed) (2007) Modelli di topografia disegnati e acquerellati da A. M. Perrot, Modèles de topographie dessinés et lavés par A. M. Perrot, IGM, Firenze.

Cantile A. (ed) (2007) La cartografia in Italia: nuovi metodi e nuovi strumenti dal Settecento ad oggi, IGM, Firenze.

Cantile A. (ed) (2003) Leonardo genio e cartografo. La rappresentazione del territorio tra scienza e arte, IGM, Firenze.