

ANDREA GUARAN

University of Udine, Italy - Department of Human Science

Assistant professor in Educational Geography

---

STITUTIONAL ROLES

Regional President of the Italian Association of Geographical Teachers;
Member of the Quality Presidium of University of Udine

---

ACADEMIC CAREER

Andrea Guaran is a researcher in Geography at the Department of Human Sciences at the University of Udine and is a lecturer at Course of Foreign Languages and Literature. He also teaches at the Primary Educational Course of the same university.

His research deals with water sources, in particular about the relationships between tourism development and the management of water and on the water integrated cycle territorial problems. On these subjects he has published several articles and has edited Water in the Euro-Mediterranean Area / L'acqua nello spazio Euromediterraneo, 2010.

His interests are also on the teaching geography aspects, with a monograph (Geografia in laboratorio, Forum, 2007) and other articles. In this field he recently has edited Infanzia, spazio e geografia, Pàtron (2011). Besides he studies urban spaces and their dynamics and some regional topics, as the demographic trends in different municipalities of his region or the local characteristics of economic development in geographic terms.

---

MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS

Geographical education; urban spaces and social aspects; water issues